The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is widely underlain by red, Permian-age shale, with intermittent flow. Sandy channels are common, especially in the东部. Sandy soils are found in the eastern part of the ecoregion, whereas pebbly soils are more common in the west. Ecoregion 27 is a major source of freshwater, with numerous springs and seeps. The ecoregion is the primary source of water for the Red River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is also a major source of water for the Canadian River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Arkansas River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Kansas River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.

The Central Great Plains (27) ecoregion is a major source of water for the Missouri River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Platte River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Niobrara River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Republican River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the South Dakota River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the James River and its tributaries. The ecoregion is a major source of water for the Big Sioux River and its tributaries.